Description

With the magnitude of new features in mind:

Shall we attempt to release a new version, e.g., 0.6?

History

In the CSRA, we currently use the master branch - because of said features. On the contrary, we would like to have a somewhat stable version in order to allow for further development without interfering the stability of our infrastructure.

I pushed a new branch 0.6. Anything else to do for a release here?
Sorry for the delay, I didn't received a notification...
