Great! Good start. Will you reference this already from the Redmine project and the toolkit catalogue entry?

Along the same lines: Did you already remove parts of the Wiki content in favor of the new documentation?

I think there is no documentation node type, yet. flier should know ...

No, just copied stuff and wrote from scratch so far.

An initial version is written.

Open issues:

- We still have to discuss whether the chosen structure makes sense
- The manual probably needs testing

I suppose it is already much better than the wiki pages. So, my main comment at this stage is to remove the redundant information from the wiki pages and add a reference to the new documentation as part of the rsb:version:"0.6" release efforts. Through this change and the coming system developments in HUMAVIPS and SoziRob we may also get quite early feedback. Furthermore, we may consider to present the envisioned dataset talk for the RSB meeting also in the AI club.

The task of "creation" has been done. Further issues will be tracked with #900.

As long as the manual is not fully evaluated we propose to leave the wiki alive as it is.
